A Rare Chance Now Occurs For Anyone to "Back Their Opinion"

Anyone who thinks a Chinese Laundry is all "Sweetness" should "Back their Opinion" by inviting them to start up a Chinese Laundry right next to their home.

But would anyone so invite them? We have our doubts.

How would You like a Chinese Laundry near Your Home?

Would You Kick?

"The Review" was established for 9 years before this Chinese Laundry opened up near our home, are you surprised at this Kicking?

We expect that You would do a "Let Me Kick and a Let Him Kick."

We would think that only those that live quite a respectable distance away, would say that this Chinese Laundry is "Sweet and Wholesome."

It is Not just Soap and Water that drains into these Holes in the ground, it is also "Dirt" from the Clothes that have been washed.

Your Clothes (if you send them there) are doubtless washed along with dozens of other peoples' clothes, this conveys a multitude of Impure and Thoughtful to the "Deep and Serious Striker" and to anyone who "Values their Health."

A Serious Matter

Talking on the vital subject of "Health," word has reached the Town, that there is "Scarlet Fever" and "Diphtheria" around. So doesn't Everybody need to be "Careful" and watch such places as "Chinese Laundries"?

Health Before All

Each individual can only keep their "Health" by breathing in "Sweet and Pure Air."

Are you breathing in by Day and Night, "Poisoned Air" filled with Deadly Disease Germs?

If so, how can You expect "Good Robust Health?"

These "Deadly Disease Germs" with the Summer Heat coming on, can soon develop with terrible swiftness into an Epidemic that can soon devastate the whole Town. Surely, surely You will fight for Your own Life and for those most dear to You, by seeing that "Common Decency" and "Sanitary Laws" are observed by all?

We should all Work To have a "Sweet and Wholesome Town" for the Innocent may Die, as well as the Guilty.

Last Tuesday, work was commenced in emptying out the Patrial Water and Sludge from one of the Holes in the backyard of the Chinese Laundry, the work is not finished yet, but it is proposed to keep taking some of this filthy away every day till these Death Traps are emptied.

For satisfaction sake, why don't they make them tear up all those Boards and see what is really underneath them, is it Earth or is it more Poison?

This week the Chinese Laundry are having a bigger Washing of Dirty Clothes than ever.

The question is, what are they doing with this Dirty Water? What Tan or Check is being kept upon them to carry the Dirty Water away?

As long as that Pipe from their Sink leading to these Holes is left in, as long will they be tempted to pour this filthy Water down this Pipe.

The only way, is to have this Pipe pulled up out of these Patrial Holes all together.

And the next thing is to move them, to the outskirts of the Town, so as not to Pollute the Homes of White men.

Grasshopper Eggs are Numerous

Don't be Deceived, Grasshoppers
Will Be Worse Than Ever

According to reports received Grasshopper Eggs are Very Numerous in many parts of the Southern and Central areas of the Province. The latest report for Organization to combat the Pest comes from a District near Wainwright, East of Edmonton on the Grand Trunk Pacific.

No false Security should be felt by Farmers that the Wet Weather will result in Killing off the Grasshoppers, for E. H. Strickland, who is in charge of the field work for the Department in the campaign against the Grasshopper, states that Contrary to the popular impression, this Season has been about the Worst possible for Hatching of Hoppers in Millions, for the following reasons:

The Wet Weather has Delayed the Hatching of Grasshopper Eggs until now there is No Possibility of a late spring frost killing off the Hoppers after the Winter weather has passed them. This possibility has passed now so that the warm weather now coming will hatch the Hoppers out in Greater Numbers than Ever. For This Reason Farmers should be on the Alert now more than Ever before them.

Farmers and Municipalities are entering heartily into the work of Organizing to Combat the Pest. Last week the Hoppers of all Municipalities included in Grasshopper District No. 21 held a meeting at Stettler to complete Plans for Organization. This is the first meeting of Reeves for this purpose and is likely to be followed by Similar Meetings in Other Districts.

It is pointed out that there Cannot be any Laxity in the Watch for the Appearance of the Hoppers, and it is urged upon all the need of the utmost co-operation in every way to Combat the Pest. In one section of Alberta, where organized effort has been carried on against the Hoppers for the past two or three years. Hoppers Eggs have been found to the extent of 5000 per square foot this year, compared with about 200 in previous years, which gives some idea of how the Pest is likely to develop this year. Farmers need to get and keep all the men that they can afford to help them in their general farm work and also to help to get after these Grasshoppers with Poison Bait.

Bitter Exchanges Feature Meeting of The Dail Eireann

Dublin.—Machine guns have been added to the defense of the four courts building in Dublin, which was occupied by irregulars some time ago, and the occupants threaten to burn the place if any attempt is made to expel them by force.

Inquiry regarding the safety of certain valuable documents elicited the reply that as long as the garrison was not molested these papers would not be injured.

The Provisional Government has announced that the whole work of the public record office has been held up on account of occupation of the building. People of Irish birth all over the world have had constant reference to this office for evidence concerning old age pensions, insurance and other matters.

Bitter exchanges between Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, and Eamon de Valera, the republican leader, more intense than any heretofore, marked the proceedings of the Dail Eireann. Charges and counter charges of responsibility for the present disastrous character of the debate, and Mr. Griffith, in a strong attack, endeavored to show that de Valera, while professing Irish republicanism, was willing to compromise.

At one point, describing how on de Valera's return from America, he had entered into negotiations with the British, Griffith declared:

"When I went to London, de Valera asked me to go and get him the straight jacket of the republic."

This led to an angry scene. Mr. de Valera exclaimed, "I deny it. It is a falsehood," while Mr. Griffith shouted at Griffith, who retorted, "I won't be intimidated by any gummy knave."

A fresh uproar arose, and Mr. de Valera demanded withdrawal of the offensive expression.

The Dail Eireann president refused to withdraw and asked how many speeches de Valera was to be allowed to make.

Mr. de Valera replied, "One for every life."

Finally, it was agreed that correspondence leading to the London negotiations should be published and Mr. de Valera remarked, "It shall be done forthwith," while Mr. Griffith made against the life of Michael Collins. This was greeted with derisive laughter in some quarters. He further declared that in the current issue of the Republic of Ireland, a paper edited by an Englishman, "Children's Children," carried an article which alluded to the "assassination of the London delegates."

Reference by Mr. Griffith to "Children's Children" provoked a loud protest from Children, and Mr. Griffith continued, "I know what is going on."

Lloyd George Dwells On Political Dangers That Confront Europe

Genoa.—Premier Lloyd George has drawn an alarmist picture of Europe. In addressing the British and United States press representatives he declared that the object of Genoa was to clear up the political differences which were full of menace. He compared Europe to seething racial lava, which like the earth's crust was seeking a proper level. This adjustment was full of perils. He emphasized that Europe must take cognizance of hungry Russia, which could be equipped by an angry Germany.

The world must recognize the fact," the Premier said, "that Russia and Germany combined constitute over two-thirds of the people of Europe. Their voice will be heard, and the Russo-German treaty is the first warning of it."

As proof of the danger, he cited the fact that there was no frontier line from the Baltic to the Black Sea, including the Rumanian, Galician, Polish and Lithuanian frontiers which had been accepted.

"With America were here," Mr. Lloyd George exclaimed, "Some people think we want the United States for some selfish purpose. This is not true. We want America because she exercises a peculiar authority, and very seldom gives her the right to speak."

Russia Practically Ceases Production

Berlin.—Vanishing transport facilities, dwindling coal stocks and the transfer of privately owned business to communistic control have almost killed Russian production, Boris Stunkel, a Russian engineer, told a meeting of German metal merchants here. The situation is such, he said, that it would be impossible to revive production by ordinary methods. He emphasized the difference in the mental outlook of the Russians and the people of Western Europe, adding that the latter in their efforts to open up Russia needed to proceed with extreme caution.

on and what atmosphere is being prepared and have only to say to these people, to this Englishman, Children, and his backers that if they think they are going to prevent the Irish people from expressing their views on this treaty they won't be able to do so."

India's Wheat Crop Shows Big Increase

Over Three Million Bushels Harvested
According to Estimates
Ottawa.—A cablegram received by the Department of Agriculture here from the International Institute of Agriculture, states that the first official estimate of the newly harvested wheat crop of India is 332,338,000 bushels against 259,462,000 bushels last year, and 340,590,000 bushels the average of the five previous years. The average production of India from 1909 to 1912, was 359,000,000 bushels. The condition of winter cereals on the first of April was very good in Bulgaria, average in Germany and Italy and fair in France.

To Meet in British Columbia
Victoria.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association will be held in Victoria on August 16 and 17, and in Victoria on August 18. The American Bar Association will hold its annual meeting in San Francisco, August 19 to 21, and an invitation has been sent to the American lawyers to attend the Canadian meeting.

Poland Gets Loan in U.S.
Warsaw.—Announcement is made that Poland has concluded a large loan in the United States. The conditions of the loan are said to be most favorable.

Morg Unemployed in England
London.—Unemployment in Great Britain approached a new increase last week. The new total is 12,000, greater.

"America could exert an influence no other country could command. She could come here (Genoa) and disentangle us, and with the prestige which comes from her independent position, she would come with the voice of peace."

"But America is not here; so Europe must do her best to solve the problems of the world."

Mr. Lloyd George gave it as his opinion that the disorganization of Europe would affect the entire world, including the United States. He was amazed at people who ignored the portentous fact facing Europe today. Unless Europe is reorganized in other words, unless the Genoa conference succeeds in arranging a pact, he was confident that if not in his own life, certainly in the life of the younger men present, Europe would again see water in blood. "We triumphed in the war," he said, "but our triumph will not last for ever. If our victory develops into oppression, vengeance will follow, just as Germany's action which started the war was followed by vengeance."

"We must be just and equitable and show strength; we must realize that Europe is not on good terms and that storms are arising which we must meet. We had hoped that 'the end of the Great War' meant the end of brute force, but unless Europe's problems are solved, there is no assurance that this has given way to light."

May Float Loan Within Canada

Possibility that Government Will Make Another Domestic Loan Issue

Ottawa.—The possibility of the next Government loan being floated in Canada was foreboded in a report made by Hon. H. S. Fiddling, Minister of Finance, to a delegation representing the Bond Dealers' Association of Canada, which waited on him for the purpose of considering the question of further issue of loans.

The recent financing in New York has supplied the present needs of the Government and it is understood that there will be no immediate further borrowing.

Mr. Fiddling intimated, however, that the maturing obligations of the Government were large, that at no distant day further borrowing would be necessary, and that his desire was that then the conditions would be such as to permit the floating of a domestic loan.

Few Persons Killed In Tokio Earthquake

Official Report Says Shock Lasted for Fifteen Minutes
Tokyo.—A heavy earthquake, centering in Tokyo, caused the death of a few persons and considerable damage was done to buildings in the city and its outskirts.

The earthquake was preceded by an eruption of Mount Asama-Yama, ninety miles northwest of Tokyo, which broke out with a loud report pouring forth volumes of ashes, stones and smoke. No serious damage was caused by the eruption. There were many escapes of the narrowest sort from collapsing chimneys and walls. The earth shock was one of the most severe experienced here in a long period. Officials stated it lasted 15 minutes, the longest in years.

Drop in Canadian Sea Fish Catch

Only Increase Was in Herring Taken on Pacific Coast

Ottawa.—A report on the fishing results for the month of March, 1922, issued by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, says: The total catch of sea fish on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts for the month was 116,665 cwt., valued at $515,389. In the same month last year 106,332 cwt. valued at $171,514 were landed.

On the Pacific coast there was a big drop in the catch of halibut, only 10,208 cwt. being taken compared with 21,500 cwt. in March, 1921. The catch of herring on the other hand shows a considerable increase, 45,398 cwt. being taken against 19,304 in the preceding March.

Followers Of Villa Are Said To Threaten Mennonites In Mexico

Hopes Cattle Embargo Will Be Removed

London.—Lord Shaughnessy, in an interview in the Times expresses the sincere hope that the British Parliament recognizes the soundness of Canada's position with regard to the embargo against Canadian cattle and the justice of her complaint. Alluding to a recent message from Canada that land settlement in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan will be controlled in future by the Mexican Government, instead of by the Dominion Government, Lord Shaughnessy is quoted as saying: "There are great cattle raising provinces and it would be a serious thing if their attitude toward British settlement were influenced by price factors from the country. I cannot see how the provinces are to take complete control of immigration."

Pass Estimates For Western Public Buildings

Saskatchewan Allocated the Smallest Amount of any of the Provinces
Ottawa.—Votes for public buildings in the western provinces were under discussion in the House. A vote of $40,500 for public buildings in Manitoba was carried without discussion. Improved farm machinery and valuable household supplies, to say nothing of plenty of money all of which was approved for Saskatchewan public buildings, amounting to $27,000, called for a protest from A. M. Carmichael (Fredericton, N.S.). Mr. Carmichael said Saskatchewan had a larger population than either Alberta or Manitoba, but was allocated a smaller amount for public buildings. In fact, she was given the smallest vote of any of the provinces in what public buildings were to be erected or repaired. This item carried.

On the Alberta vote of $100,000, T. Shaw (Protestant, Calgary West), asked the Government to build a new post office for Calgary. The former post office had been pulled down, he said, and now postal work was distributed among a number of buildings in the city.

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, said he was afraid the Government could not consider building a new post office in Calgary until finances were in better condition. The vote of $10,000 was carried.

When the vote of $10,510 for public buildings in British Columbia came up, Leon J. Ladner (Conservative, Vancouver South), said that his constituents were more interested in the building of the Vancouver drydock than in setting a new post office.

The British Columbia estimate carried.

Manchester, Eng.—Official announcement was made that there would be no stoppage in the cotton trade here, all sections of operatives have agreed on a humdrum wage reduction of three shillings and three pence in the pound and a further reduction of 10 pence six months hence.

Plans Are Made For British Settlement Within The Empire

London.—In the House of Commons, Lieut-Col. L. C. Henry, Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Admiralty, moved the second reading of the Empire Settlement Bill, the object of which is to make better provision than is the case at present for (1) British settlement in overseas dominions; (2) a sea areas dominions.

Col. Henry stated that the bill was intended to give effect to resolutions passed in conference with the dominions last year. He acknowledged that the dominions' present restrictions were necessary owing to their own labor conditions.

Two schemes are now submitted—land settlement and sea areas, and land settlement development. The overseas settlement committee, Col. Henry said, is now of the opinion that the dominions and the sea areas of the dominions has convinced us that the causality of the dominions to absorb any really large numbers of immigrants depends entirely upon the opening up of agricultural resources. Col. Henry said, "There is direct settlement of men on the land will constitute the economic regeneration of the Empire." Consequently the importance of the bill and the settlement development scheme that assisted emigration.

It was not proposed to spend more than $1,500,000 in the present year, Col. Henry pointed out, but the normal expenditure was fixed at $2,000,000, of which about $1,000,000 would be required for assisting emigration.

To this the dominions furnish another $1,000,000. Col. Henry estimated the annual emigration at something between 40 and 50 thousand—only a small number of men with considerably larger figure eventually if the payment of the advances was added to the fund for further assistance. The remaining $2,000,000 of the United Kingdom's settlement fund would be available for assistance to those who are not going to our own country. It probably about 3,000 heads of families as farmers might be settled for a loan expenditure of $1,000,000. Col. Henry said that his scheme might yield larger results.

Can We Grow Oats in Rows?

by James Murray
District Agriculturist

We have all seen strong healthy plants growing and not growing equally well with an abundance of room when crops planted in the ordinary way were completely dried up. Even the heat and drought of the last few years have not been too great for plants with ample room to produce fully. This has led to a number of trials being made to test the feasibility of growing grain in rows commercially.

At first thought it does not make a strong appeal as it looks funny and tedious and would seem to depart too far from our accepted ways of growing such crops, but sufficient trials have already been made to show that it has real possibilities. In a few tests made last year at Saskatoon, oats sown in double rows thirty inches apart produced over fifty bushels per acre, while summer fallow grain yielded about 100 bushels per acre. In South Dakota similar yields have been secured.

If used here such a row would be grown on land that would ordinarily be summerfallow. Instead of cultivating head land during the summer we would be cultivating a crop of oats with a one, two or three row cultivator. The land would be sown to wheat or oats the following year without any further preparation beyond disk-ing or cultivating in the spring.

Cultivating during the summer season would be absolutely necessary as weeds would otherwise come up quickly enough to take up as much moisture as the grain. The biggest difficulty would be to cut the weeds that grew close to the grain without injuring the stand. Only experience would show how great this difficulty is.

Some moisture would of course be taken from the land by even such a seedling as is used and one of the main objects of summerfallowing in this way is partially defeated, but there are compensating advantages. The land would not be bare during the fall and winter, but would have a stubble which would not only prevent soil drifting but would also catch and hold the snow during winter.

The snow retained would help restore to the soil the moisture used in growing the crop. The disked stubble would also be protection in the spring against soil drifting.

The method recommended is to plow the land about five inches deep in May, plow or harrow and sow at once. A sufficient number of the runs of the drill are plugged up to allow thirty inches between each pair of rows of grain. The drill should be set to sow about two bushels per acre as the seeds have to be controlled by cultivation as necessity requires.

To handle a large acreage in this way would entail no small amount of labor but no more than to five acres would take no more work than a similar acreage of corn or potatoes. It might easily produce a fair crop when the regular old crop would be a failure on account of there not being enough moisture for a full stand of grain, but sufficient for the rows with the wide spacing.

The oat crop produced would probably work more than pay for the additional work. There is, too, the real advantage of having the land covered with stubble to hold snow and protect soil drifting.

This method of growing oats will be tried out this year in Southern Alberta even if on a small scale. I should like to hear from a number of farmers who are willing to grow from one to five acres according to the plan outlined.

To Save the Children

A group of Russian's starving children such as are being saved from death by Canadian contributions.

Russia's government may have starved; but her little children have not. Russia's people, a vast horde, but dimly conscious, if at all, of social responsibility other than that which each man felt for his own immediate family, may have brought added trouble and degradation to a war-shattered world. Her little children had nothing to do with it, and yet it is the little children of Russia that are faced with the hideous, over-powering brute of it all. They are not facing it; it is too great for them. In millions they are tottering to the ground and their short lives of unrelieved horror in one last agonized spasm.

In the famine-stricken provinces of Russia there are, or were, 25,000,000 people. Millions already have died of starvation; Russian says ten millions more must die. That includes men and women, infants, helpless peasants who have had no hand, no thought, in the making of the unspeakable conditions that have swept over their once happy land. These know they must die, are almost content to die, finding peace in death and suffering the cessation of horror.

But their children—the parents are human beings; if they were mere animals the long protracted death agonies of their little ones would be unbearable. To most of them their children first and then themselves is too great; they die and looked. Again, if they were animals it would be different; and, instinctively they would know how to wrest a living from the Mother Nature. But little children must be fed. They must have food found for them, and in Russia there is none, so they must die. Death is not the worst of it. If a peaceful death were all they suffered, it would not be so bad. It is the hideous horror of the drawn-out struggle, and it is helpless little children that are suffering. They are suffering to-day and must continue to suffer to death, unless—unless the civilized world help people of the world bear their awful suffering.

This little chap, left alone in the world, crawled into a deserted cottage to die.

But the children are alone to wander that the country is quiet of some thing, anything to devour. Little claws that should be the pretty hands of children dig in the ground for roots, even when the ground is frozen, and misshape little feet crawl from refuse heap to ruined cottage to see if one small, eatable fragment may not be over-

Saved from death by the humanity of those who have already contributed to this fund.

Serving the Traveller at Windsor Station, Montreal.

View of one of the counters of the new service depot for the accommodation of the travelling public, opened in one of the main entrances to Windsor Street C. P. R. Station, Montreal.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has just completed the "re-modelling" of the main entrance to the Windsor Street Station in Montreal. Some time ago the Natural Resources Exhibit in one of the entrances was beautified and enlarged, many new products of the country being added, so that now it is one of the finest exhibits of its kind in the world. Hitherto the spacious main entrance which in years gone by was part of the ticket office, was used merely for traffic, a large space on each side being more or less waste ground.

With a view to providing increased facilities for the convenience of the travelling public the space that was formerly unused in the main entrance has been converted into a service depot. Here persons hastening to a train or returning from a trip may supply themselves with various requisites without having to walk an extra step outside the building, or take the trouble usually taken to procure these requisites. The new departure might be called a service-on-the-way depot.

Not one inch is taken from the passage way, but on each side of the formerly unused space a beautiful counter and exhibition shelf have been placed. The general furnishings of the depot are of the prettiest and most artistic design. Hearty and utility went hand in hand in the construction work. A special feature is the electric lighting. A number of artistic lamps hang from the arch above, while the counters and shelves are illuminated by a system of hidden lights whose rays, without any glaring effects, light up the station with the most pleasant lustre.

The articles sold in the service-on-the-way depot will be confined to those that are usually required by tourists and other travellers. The greatest pains have been taken to ensure that all articles will be preserved in the best condition, a humidor is provided for preserving the tobacco, cigars and cigarettes. The heating system is also perfect. The depot will be open all day and in the evening—all the time it might be required for the convenience of passengers to and from the trains.

The new depot will not in any way interfere with the existing service which will continue as usual. However, it is likely that the new service-on-the-way depot will considerably relieve the congestion that there used to be around the same stand, particularly at train times.

Though always imposing, the appearance of the entrance to Windsor Street Station has been considerably improved by the remodeling that has recently taken place. In the most delightful atmosphere, those who have some moments to spare previous to train departures can amuse and interest themselves in viewing the wonderful exhibition of natural resources in one of the entrances.

In selecting the books which will be available for the travelling public, it has been decided to pay special attention to the fiction by Canadian authors, a policy which is being adopted generally all over the Canadian Pacific system.

The Grave of a Canadian Poetess

Pauline Johnson's Grave in Stanley Park, British Columbia.

TOURISTS from all over the world appreciate the beauty of that corner of Stanley Park, British Columbia, where are buried the ashes of Canada's Indian poetess, Pauline Johnson. In the shade of the great trees, within sight of the Squash Rock, is one of the ideal spots of that poetess' natural woodland, and has been marked by a simple temporary stone rolled in place. To catch the spirit of her songs that Canada's love for her Indian princess may have during expression a permanent memorial will shortly be erected.

The memorial will take the form of a rustic, antique fountain, to be erected from moss covered stones, gathered from the park. The water will flow through this granite protection as a natural spring, and fall into a pool at the side with the added charm of water lilies in the pool. The head stone will have a life size reproduction of the head of the poetess, while on the west side will be emblem of her legends, showing the flint and feather. The "flint and feather" is an emblem, rich in Indian associations. "Flint" suggests the Red man's weapons of war; it is the arrow tip, the heart quality of the people. The "feather" is the eagle plume that crests the head of the warrior chief. In the words of the late poetess, "The flint and feather bear the hall marks of my Mohawk blood." On the east side of the fountain will be carved a canoe and paddle. This will be significant as a representation of the spirit of the "song my paddle sings," one of the sweetest songs penned by the poetess. It reads:

And up in the hills against the sky,
A fire tree rocking its lullaby,
Swings, swings,
His emerald wings,
Swelling the song my paddle sings."

The eyes of the figure will be focussed on the stream of water, and beneath the carving will be the name "E. Pauline Johnson," with the date of birth and death.

The plan promoted by the Art, Historical and Scientific Society of Vancouver, of establishing an Indian village in Stanley Park, will prove unique in Canada. It will breathe an individualism redolent with associations of the "evergreen coast," and of the early history and legends of our country. The idea of the society is to bring an entire old-time Indian village, with its many totem poles, lodges, council chambers and customary features, and place it in Stanley Park. It will perpetuate for all time the splendid and ancient history of some of the early coast Indians, constituting the original pre-historic inhabitants of British Columbia, now only the remnant of a dying race. There are a few remaining villages, now in danger of decay from long disuse, silently melting at secluded northern coves along the Pacific coast. There is evidence of stately pomp and grandeur about the huge lodges and spacious council chambers with their numerous heraldic totem poles. The society hopes to obtain an ample number of totem poles, chief's regalia, "coppers," a metallic insignia of hereditary office, and other panoply, dancing masks, robes, talking sticks, huge muck-muck bowls, war canoes, carved dog jangle, and linoleo, roof trees, medicine men's costly fur robes of sea otter, or other skins with full accessories.

Diphtheria has stricken one of the children of Mrs. Ungstad living south east of Burdett, although somewhat better they are under quarantine, we all feel very sorry for this family which seems to be having a streak of ill luck, Mr. Ungstad was ill last spring with Typhoid Fever from which he has never well recovered.

Farmers' Responsibility in Fighting the Grasshoppers

Mr. Strickland has made the following points clear of the new "Pest Act"

(1) Every Owner or Occupier of Grasshopper infested land is Compelled to put out Poisoned Bait on that land.

(2) The Provincial Government pays 50 per cent of the expense of the Bait and the Local Improvement District 50 per cent.

(3) Every Farmer must put out his own Bait and also see that his neighbor does. This campaign looks like a $250,000.00 outlay, and we ought to make a thorough job of it.

(4) The Owner of Infested vacant land is to be notified by an Officer of the Department of the condition of his land. Then, within three days, if no action is taken by the Owner, the Officer may go in and put out the Bait, and Charge the Cost to the Owner.

(5) In case anyone Refuses to put out Bait a fine of $100.00 will be imposed.

A Timely Warning Poison

Now that farmers are organizing in an effort to combat the grasshopper and gopher nuisances there is no doubt that a considerable amount of poison will be in every farm home. Extra precaution should therefore be taken to see that these poisons are kept well out of reach of children and domestic stock. - Already some fatalities have been reported from other parts of the west.

Grassy Lake

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Chas. Scott has been confined to her bed since last Saturday, we hope she will soon be up again.

Mr. Phelps, Health Inspector was here on business last Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Job Llewellyn sen. from Magrath was visiting her son and daughter at Burdett last week; also (in note at Grassy Lake)

Would the parties that are "making themselves busy" by taking things that don't belong to them be kind enough to replace them or take some back to Mrs. Job Llewellyn sen. at Grassy Lake, it seems to be a very difficult task to let others people's property alone, by not taking those things back it will cause further trouble.

Purple Springs

Mrs. Ed Long is busy these days renovating her home, spring always brings a busy time.

Mr. Ed Long is having very good luck with the little lambs. One wonders how such frail wee things can stand such inclement weather we have had in the past.

Mr. A. Edwards has sold his farm, Mr. Edwards has decided to work with his team on the Irrigation Ditch near MacLeod this summer and during that time Mrs. Edwards will stay with her mother and father Mr. and Mrs. Ed Long.

Mrs. Hudson sen. is not very well we are sorry to report.
